COMMISSIONERS' COURT MET MONDAY

Monday, July 14th, was regular meeting day for the Medina County Commissioners' Court which convened at the courthouse in Hondo with all members present. The following proceedings were transacted:

The Court considered the question of National Defense Aluminum Collection July 21 to 29 as set forth under the direction of Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, and voted unanimously to solicit the aid of the various Chambers of Commerce, mayors of incorporated cities, Boy Scouts, the County Agent and the Home Demonstration Agent with all women's club members, and moving picture operators to assist in making a house to house canvas in Medina County. The offer of Mrs. E. R. Leinweber's building near Fly Drug Co., as a place of storage was accepted.

The Court passed an order giving the contract to prepare the Delinquent Tax Roll for Medina County for the years 1937-38-39 and 40 to W. T. Turner of Stephenville, Texas, at the rate of 4 1/2 cents per line. The County's books are not to be taken out of the courthouse during the work of preparing the delinquent record.

The Court passed an order that a flagpole approximately the height of the wall of the courthouse be erected in the court yard and that the Boy Scouts be solicited to hoist and lower the colors daily. The cost of erecting the flagpole is to be charged to the Improvement Fund.

The Court ordered that Sterling Fuller, colored, a blind citizen of Medina County, be granted County aid at the rate of $3.00 per month
beginning July 15 and to continue monthly until further orders of the Court.

GOOD NEWS

The two telegrams, copies of which appear at the top of page one of this paper, bring good news to all of Medina County.

Their courthouse is to be finished!
Work on the remodeling and enlarging of the courthouse was temporarily suspended some weeks ago,
due to exhaustion of WPA funds.
We understand that there is available in the county's courthouse improvement fund money sufficient to meet the county's prorata. Now that new WPA funds have been secured, work can be resumed as soon as a few preliminary details are worked out, and the improvements carried on to completion.

This fact is a great relief to all,
as there had been some fear that the Federal government's absorption in defense preparations might delay it indefinitely.

Senator Connally and Congressman West have the thanks of the entire county for their help in securing the means of completing this important undertaking.

WORK ON COURTHOUSE TO BE RESUMED

County Judge Arthur H. Rothe received word Wednesday morning, July 16, from Congressman Milton H. West that a supplemental Medina County Court House Improvement Project had been approved by the President and WPA funds are now available for resumption of the work on the courthouse and its completion. The telegram is given below:

31,27 Govt. B Washington, D. C., 9:41 a. m. July 16, 1941.

Judge Arthur H. Rothe,
Hondo, Texas.

Presidential approval obtained yesterday on Medina County's WPA project to continue and complete improvements to court house. Federal contribution being $23,447 and total amount of project $33,940. Regards.
MILTON H. WEST, M. C.
9:15 a. m.

Several hours later Judge Rothe received a second telegram from Washington, this time from Senator Tom Connally, setting out the details of the construction provided for in the new Federal allotment of funds. The telegram follows:

70-67 govt. SN Washington, D. C., 10:26 a. m., July 16, 1941.

Judge Arthur H. Rothe,
County Judge, Hondo, Texas.

President has designated WPA project No. 15017 in amount $23,447 to complete construction of additions to and improve county courthouse. Work includes performing carpentry, masonry, roofing, sheet metal and iron work, painting, placing lath plastering, constructing parking areas, roadways, drives, and curbs, installing utility services and drainage facilities, landscaping grounds and performing appurtenant and incidental work. Project now eligible for operation at discretion of State Works Projects Administrator.

TOM CONNALLY. 2:43 p. m.

The recent report of the Grand Jury found that upon investigation that the County's portion of the necessary contribution is sufficient to complete the courthouse project. Judge Rothe and Commissioner Alfred Bader went to San Antonio Thursday morning to contact the San Antonio District WPA authorities, urging them to get the project going with the least possible delay. The District authorities reported favorably on the project and informed the County officials that work would possibly begin by August 1st.

CATHOLIC MEN ORGANIZE

According to an announcement in last Thursday's issue of The Southern Messenger several Medina County parishes in the San Antonio Archdiocese have formed councils known as Catholic Action Council of Men.
They were established with the help of Dr. John G. Bowen, field representative of the National Council of Catholic Men.

Officers of the councils established last week in Medina County are:
ST. LOUIS, Castroville—President, Joseph Steine; secretary and treasurer, Alfred Rihn; chairman of particular activities, August Schott.
Charles Suehs Jr., E. J. Haby and Gabriel R. Hans.

Very Rev. Dean J. Lenzen is pastor.

HOLY CROSS, D'Hanis—President, M. M. Koch; secretary-treasurer, Ben Koch; chairmen, Ed Koch, John Nester, Herman Ney and William Nehr.

Rev. Eugene Zuber, pastor.
ST. JOHN'S, Hondo—President,
Frank X. Vance; secretary-treasurer, Joseph Meyer; chairmen, Frank Graff, Harry Filleman, Ed Ney and Leo Laake.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

July 15, Matias del Toro and Maria Teresa Fernandez.

July 15, Salvador Vara and Clara Hernandez.

SCHULTE-MUENNINK

Uniting two of Medina County's old and highly respected families
is the marriage of Miss Alice Augusta Muennink and Robert Schulte
Sr., which took place at 7:30 P. M.
Tuesday, July 8, 1941, at the First Lutheran Church of Corpus Christi, Texas. The pastor, Rev. Milton Falkenberg, officiated at the double ring ceremony, and Mrs. Falkenberg played the nuptial music. The vows were made in the presence of a few friends.

There was sentiment attached to the couple's choice of an officiating minister. The wedding ceremony was the third in as many generations of the bride's family performed by a Rev. Falkenberg. The bride's grandmother and mother were married by the late Rev. A. Falkenberg, father of Rev. Milton Falkenberg, in 1880 and 1905. The bride and Rev. Milton Falkenberg were school mates
both in Hondo High School and in Sequin Lutheran College, from which both graduated.

The bridal couple was unattended.
She wore a pretty redingote ensemble of white silk waffle weave with white accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses. Her only ornament was a pink cameo belonging to her grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Schulte returned to Hondo Thursday night after visiting in Corpus Christi and Port Aransas. They are at home in their newly remodeled home on City Park square. Mr. Schulte is employed at Windrow's Drug Store.

The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Amanda Muennink and the late George H. Muennink Jr. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs.
Henry Schulte Sr.

JOINT STATEMENT TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

The Nation is appealing to all its citizens for their active assistance
for the first time since President Roosevelt's declaration of a full national emergency May 27, 1941.

The Nation needs aluminum for planes and other vital items in its defense program more rapidly than existing facilities can produce it. Additional facilities are being constructed as quickly as possible. In the meantime, the people of the Nation
can help by donating all used alumi-numware that can be spared from their households without being replaced. No individual or group or corporation will make any profit out of this transaction. The entire proceeds of the sale will be used for civilian defense.

All aluminum will be used exclusively for national defense.

In these times of national emergency conservation of all vital national resources needed for defense purposes is essential. We must make available to our Government all material the defense program requires.

There may be later appeals for help in other forms after this one,
but a whole-hearted popular response
by the American people to this first general appeal from their Government cannot fail to impress the enemies of democracy.

WILLIAM S. KNUDSEN, Director General, Office of Production Management.

F. H. LA GUARDIA,
Director, Office of Civilian Defense.

Above notice is printed by order of the County Commissioners' Court which is designated by the Governor of Texas to see that the collecting program is carried out to its fullest possible extent.

TO COLLECT ALUMINUM IN MEDINA COUNTY

The above notice by the Medina County Commissioners' Court is pursuant to a nation-wide call for collection of aluminum for use in national defense. National Defense Aluminum Collection Week has been designated for July 21st to 29th during which time special efforts will be made to get a large supply of the necessary aluminum. In Hondo the aluminum will be stored in the back of one of the Leinweber building offices. Other places in the County will be selected and designated next week.

The Chamber of Commerce, the Boy Scouts, Women's Home Demonstration Clubs headed by the Home Demonstration Agent, the County Agent and all business men are asked to assist in the effort to get the greatest contribution of aluminum possible.

Let's respond to the Nation's call.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A birthday party was given for Clarence Boehle on his 21st birthday anniversary, July 6th, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs.

COUNTY COURT IN SESSION

Medina County Court convened at the courthouse Tuesday, July 15th,
for regular July term of court.
County Judge Arthur H. Rothe presided and others present were County Attorney Frank X. Vance, Sheriff
Chas. J. Schuehle, and Deputy Clerk Henry Schulte who officiated in the absence of County Clerk S. A. Jungman who with his family is on vacation on the West Coast. The Petis Jury was empaneled and sworn in and then excused, to return at 10 A.
M. Tuesday morning, July 22nd. The docket was called and several cases were set for trial next Tuesday and Wednesday, July 22nd and 23rd.
Court then recessed.

TO ALL MOTOR VEHICLE OWNERS

To one and all who operate a motor vehicle upon the highways this is to advise that owner of said vehicle must procure a certificate of title for same by January 1, 1942.
Don't wait until the last day or the

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

Experts—that is my subject today. Brothers and Sisters, I am allergic to experts. Early each fall they tell us which football team has no chance, and then on New Year's Day, in the Rose Bowl, is the outfit they said was a weak sister. Last spring they said the Yankees
were too strong and should be broken up to give the others a chance. And in Cincinnati, in the fall, you see Detroit—not the Yankees.

And down in our bulging Big Buildings on the Potomac, our Experts expound and tell us
they have it fixed so by next year we will be in clover. But next year keeps on being next year.

And Gallahadion in the Derby
a year ago, had no chance, but if you put 2 dollars on him you took down 60. The experts sneaked home in a barrel. This year they improved some—but not much.

What this country needs
most, is not fewer grandmas in seersucker pants and lavender toenails, like most people think,
it is fewer experts.

Yours with the low down,
JOE SERRA.

THAT ELECTION ORDER

On the second page of this paper appears the official order and notice
for the road bond election ordered by the Commissioners' Court to be held on August 12th.

It should be read and thoroughly digested by every tax-paying voter in the district.

Only property tax-payers can vote
in the election; by the same token,
they must pay the taxes that will be collected to pay the principal and interest of and on the debt to be incurred.

It is the taxpayers' problem.
If judiciously spent, the funds should place Hondo permanently on its present location on Highway 90;
it should make certain a junction of 173 with 90 within the present bounds of the city and at the most feasible point for crossing 90 and the railroad for the ultimate extension northwest to a junction with 83;
and it should give the community
considerable improvement of its network of community roads.

Either one of the first two achievements in the long-run would be worth the cost of the bond issue.
They are of foremost importance.

So far, there has been little interest apparent among the voters in putting most important things foremost.

This is not a good omen.
For instance, at the risk of being accused of pointing out an odious comparison, Devine precinct recently held a mass meeting, discussed and agreed upon a plan for spending
—not their own money but—an allocation of only $21,000.00 of state funds on Highway 173. With the proposition to spend $100,000.00 of their own money before the Commissioners' Court, not a voter in Hondo precinct appeared to counsel
with the Court on the wisdom of giving priority to the first two projects.

Such seeming indifference bodes
no good.

If it—this indifference—means a defeat of the bond proposal in its entirety, it might mean the loss of 173 to Hondo for always and cause 90 to be relocated around the town.

Either contingency would do Hon-
do irreparable injury if not prove eventually disastrous to her future.

If we vote the bonds and, instead of helping our Commissioner to concentrate on most important things
first, we harass him to death for a pavement to our front door, the resultant confusion may delay the "straight road to Devine"—now a potential link in a transcontinental Highway from Canada to the Coast
—another fifty years.

Give that election order your most serious consideration.

DON'T DRAIN INDUSTRY DRY

There is much talk these days of taxing "excess profits" to the hilt.
And to the uninformed, that brings up pictures of a righteous government taking some of the gigantic earnings of incredibly rich corporations.

However, the problem isn't so

HIS INSURANCE POLICY

NOTICE OF ROAD BOND ELECTION

TO THE RESIDENT PROPERTY TAXPAYING VOTERS OF ROAD DISTRICT NUMBER ONE OF MEDINA COUNTY, TEXAS:

TAKE NOTICE that an election will be held on the 12TH DAY OF AUGUST, 1941, within Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, to determine if Road Bonds of said District shall be issued, and if an ad valorem tax shall be levied in payment thereof, in obedience to an election order entered by the Commissioners' Court of Medina County, Texas, on the 7th day of July, 1941, which is as follows:

ORDER OF COMMISSIONERS' COURT UPON HEARING PETITION AND ORDERING ELECTION UPON THE QUESTION OF ISSUANCE OF ROAD BONDS OF ROAD DISTRICT NUMBER ONE OF MEDINA COUNTY, TEXAS.

THE STATE OF TEXAS, COUNTY OF MEDINA.

On this the 7th day of July, 1941, the Commissioners' Court of Medina County, Texas, convened in special session, at the regular meeting place thereof, in courthouse of said County, at Hondo, Texas, all members of said Court being present, namely:

Arthur H. Rothe, County Judge, Precinct No. 1,
Alfred A. Bader, Commissioner Precinct No. 2,
Robert Rihn, Commissioner Precinct No. 3,
O. W. Tondre, Commissioner Precinct No. 4, Fred Bowman, Commissioner Precinct No. 5,
and, among other proceedings had, were the following:

There came on to be considered a petition for Bond Election in Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, whereupon the Court proceeded to hear all persons appearing before said Court, in person or by attorney, to contend for or protest the calling of such proposed bond election; and after hearing the evidence pro and con and all matters in respect of the proposed election, the following order was passed by the unanimous vote of said Court:

WHEREAS, it appearing affirmatively to the Commissioners' Court of Medina County, Texas, that Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, has heretofore been duly and legally created and established by an order of this Court passed on the 10th day of June, 1941, which order appears duly of record in Volume 10, page 521, et seq. of the Minutes of said Court, and which Road District is accurately described and defined by metes and bounds as hereinafter set forth; and

WHEREAS, it further appearing to the Court, affirmatively, that heretofore, to-wit on the 19th day of June, 1941, there was presented to this Court a petition of Ray L. Jennings and seventy-six other persons who are resident property taxpayers within said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, who own taxable property within said Road District and who have duly rendered the same for taxation, as provided by law, praying that this Court order an election to be held throughout said Road District for the purpose of determining whether or not bonds of said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, shall be issued in the sum of One Hundred Thousand Dollars, bearing interest at a rate not to exceed three per cent per annum, and said bonds to mature at such times as may be fixed by the Commissioners' Court, serially or otherwise, not to exceed twenty years from the date thereof, for the purpose of the construction, maintenance and operation of macadamized, graveled or paved roads and turnpikes, or in aid thereof, within said District; and whether or not ad valorem taxes shall be levied on all taxable property within said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, subject to taxation, for the purpose of paying the interest on said bonds and to provide a sinking fund for the redemption thereof at maturity, which said petition is in words and figures as follows, to-wit:

THE STATE OF TEXAS, COUNTY OF MEDINA.
TO THE HONORABLE COMMISSIONERS' COURT OF MEDINA COUNTY, TEXAS:

We, the undersigned, being more than fifty of the resident property taxpayers of MEDINA COUNTY ROAD DISTRICT NUMBER ONE, respectfully represent:

1. That we are qualified voters of Medina County, who reside in Medina County Road District Number One; that we own taxable property in said Medina County Road District Number One, and have duly rendered same for taxation.

2. That we desire your Honorable Body to order an election to be held within said Road District, to determine whether or not bonds of said District, to be known as MEDINA COUNTY ROAD DISTRICT NUMBER ONE ROAD BONDS, be issued under authority of Section 52 of Article 3 of the Constitution of Texas and laws enacted pursuant thereto. Said bonds to be issued in the amount of $100,000.00 for the purpose of the construction, maintenance and operation of macadamized, graveled or paved roads and turnpikes, or in aid thereof, within said District, bearing interest not to exceed 3% per annum, and maturing at such times as may be deemed expedient by the Commissioners' Court, not to exceed twenty years from date of said bonds; and whether or not ad valorem taxes shall be levied on all taxable property within said Road District Number One sufficient to pay the annual interest and to provide a sinking fund to pay the bonds at maturity.

3. That said Road District Number One has heretofore been established and defined by the Commissioners' Court of Medina County by order passed on the 10th day of June, 1941, and recorded in Vol. 10, page 521 et seq. of the Minutes of said Court, and described by metes and bounds as follows:

BEGINNING at the N. E. corner of Survey No. 417, W. H. Boyle, and N. W. corner of Survey No. 499, H. & O. B. Ry. Co., being the N. W. corner of Road District No. 2 of Medina County, Texas;

Thence south with the west line of Survey No. 499 to northernmost corner of Survey No. 29 1/2;

Thence with the N. W. and S. W. boundary lines of Survey No. 29 1/2 to the northernmost corner of Survey No. 415, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co.;

Said above described land being wholly within Medina County, Texas.

Dated this the 19th day of June, 1941.

Signed by Ray L. Jennings and seventy-six other resident property taxpayers voters within and for said Road District who own taxable property within said Road District and who have duly rendered same for taxation, as provided by law; and

WHEREAS, it further appearing affirmatively to the Court that on said 19th day of June, 1941, there came on to be considered by this Court the aforesaid petition, and that this Court thereupon, by appropriate order, set said petition down for hearing before this Court to be held in the Commissioners' Court Room, in the courthouse in Hondo, Texas, on the 7th day of July, 1941, between the hours of 10:00 o'clock A. M. and 4:00 P. M., which day was not less than fifteen days nor more than thirty days from the date of such order for said hearing; and

WHEREAS, it further appearing affirmatively to the Court that due and legal notice of the day, time and purpose of said hearing was forthwith given by the County Clerk of said County in the manner and for the length of time required by law, by posting three notices in said Road District and one at the courthouse door of said County at least ten days before the date of such hearing, and also by publication of such notice in a newspaper published in said Road District at least five days prior to such hearing; and

WHEREAS, it further appearing affirmatively to the Court that on this the 7th day of July, 1941, pursuant to said petition and said order setting said petition down for hearing, and in accordance with the notices of said hearing, at the time and place designated therefore, this Commissioners' Court being duly convened, the matter came up for hearing and consideration, and this Court proceeded to hold such hearing and to hear such petition, all evidence offered for and against said petition, and all matters in respect of the proposed bond election; and

WHEREAS, it further appearing affirmatively to the Court, and this Court does hereby affirmatively find:

1. That all persons appearing before said Court in person or by attorney were permitted to contend for or protest the calling of such bond election;

2. That said petition herein set out is signed by more than fifty, to-wit seventy-seven, of the resident property taxpayers voters of said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, who own taxable property in said Road District and who have duly rendered the same for taxation, as provided by law;

3. That the proposed improvements would be for the benefit of all taxable property situated within said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas;

4. That said petition is in all things regular and in strict compliance with law, and that the proposed bond issue of $100,000 does not exceed the constitutional limitation of one-fourth of the assessed valuation of real property of said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas;

IT IS THEREFORE CONSIDERED, ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED and the Court does now order, consider, adjudge and decree that the said petition be granted and that an election be held within and for said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, on the 12th day of August, 1941, which is not less than thirty days from the date of this order, to determine whether or not the bonds of said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, shall be issued in the amount of One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000.00), bearing interest at a rate not to exceed three per cent (3%) per annum, such bonds to mature at such times as may be fixed by the Commissioners' Court, not to exceed twenty years from date of said bonds, for the purpose of the construction, maintenance and operation of macadamized, graveled or paved roads and turnpikes, or in aid thereof, within and for said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas; and whether or not an ad valorem tax shall be levied annually upon all taxable property within said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds and provide a sinking fund to pay the said bonds at maturity. Said bonds to be issued under authority of Section 52 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas, and laws enacted pursuant thereto.

That said election shall be held under the provisions of the laws of the State of Texas, and all persons who are legally qualified voters of this State and of this County, and who are resident property taxpayers within said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, who own taxable property within said Road District and who have duly rendered same for taxation, as provided by law, shall be entitled to vote at said election. And all voters desiring to support the proposition to issue such bonds shall have written or printed upon their ballots the words:

"FOR THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS AND THE LEVYING OF AD VALOREM TAX IN PAYMENT THEREOF."

And those opposed shall have written or printed upon their ballots the words:

"AGAINST THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS AND THE LEVYING OF AD VALOREM TAX IN PAYMENT THEREOF."

The said election shall be held at the following named places within said Road District Number 1 of Medina County, Texas, and the following named officers are hereby appointed officers of said election:

Precinct No. 1, at Courthouse, V. P. King, Presiding Judge, H. H. Decker, F. A. Martin and Geo. Koch, Judges.

Precinct No. 2, Quihi at School House, Robert Riff, Presiding Judge, Emil Saathoff, Edwin Wiemers and Alf. Boehle, Judges.

Precinct No. 4, Verde at School House, H. H. Saathoff, Presiding Judge, and W. J. Saathoff, Judge.

Precinct No. 16, South Hondo at O. H. Miller's Office Bldg., A. L. Haegelin, Presiding Judge, Felix Battot, Adolph Graff and Jim Clements, Judges.

Precinct No. 17, Upper Hondo, at M. Hardeman's House, Gus Mann, Presiding Judge, and J. Hy. Ruff, Judge.

The manner of holding said election shall be governed by the General Election Laws of the State of Texas, when not in conflict with the provisions of Chapter 16, of the General Laws passed by the 39th Legislature of the State of Texas at the first called Session thereof.

Notice of said election shall be given by publication of a copy of this order in the "Hondo Anvil Herald", a newspaper published in said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, for three successive weeks prior to the date of said election; and, in addition thereto, the County Clerk of this County shall post other copies of this order at three public places in said Road District Number One of Medina County, Texas, and one at the door of the courthouse in this county, in Hondo, Texas, for three successive weeks prior to said election.

The County Clerk of this County is hereby directed to cause said notices to be published and posted, as hereinabove directed, and further ordered that the same be reserved until the returns of said election are made by the duly authorized election officers and received by this court.

The above order being read, it was moved and seconded that same do pass. Thereupon, the question being called for, the following members of the Court voted Aye: Alfred A. Bader, Robert Rihn, O. W. Tondre, and Fred Bowman; None voting No.

ENTERED this the 7th day of July, 1941.

DAILY LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT
Monday, July 14, 1941

San Antonio, July 14.—Estimated salable receipts 600, total 675. Higher asking prices delayed hog trade Monday but values eventually worked out 10-20c higher. Good and choice 180-270 lb. butchers cashed at $10.85-10.95, the maximum price paid for around 70 head strictly choice 200-225 lb. butchers. Most 160-180 lbs. earned $10.60-10.85. Limited numbers sows brought $9.85. Active competition carried feeder pigs mostly 25c higher as various lots sold at $10.75 to mainly $11.00. The $11.00 figure secured around 135-140 lb. average.

CATTLE: Estimated salable receipts 1,800, total 1,860; CALVES, salable and total 1,000. Cattle trade Monday proved moderately active as steers and yearlings carried a steady to strong price trend. The majority of common and medium yearlings appeared at $7.50-9.50 with occasional lots good offerings at $10.00-10.25. Mature grass steers were slower to move than early sessions last week. A load medium grade 1118 lb. straight grassers sold to arrive at $9.50 with various other loadlots at $8.00-8.40 and a short load to $9.50.

Stronger asking price delayed beef cow trade but eventually sales worked out mostly steady. Common and medium selections turned mainly at $6.00-6.75 with good kinds at $7.00-7.25. Canners and cutters moved steady at $4.00-6.0. Sausage bulls cleared on a firm basis, mainly $6.50-7.50, few strongweight individuals to $7.60. Lightweight and common grade dairy descriptions cashed around $5.75-6.00. Some strength was apparent for killing calves.

Good and choice brought $10.00-10.50 for the most part with choice lightweights to $11.00. Common and medium secured $8.00-10.00 with culls at $6.00-7.75.

Little price change developed for stockers and feeders. Good and choice steer calves came in at $10.50-12.00, few sales to 12.50. Comparable grade heifers made $9.50-11.00. Common and medium yearling stockers appeared at $8.00-9.50, good lots $9.75-10.50. Common mature 736lb. stocker steers cashed at $7.50.

SHEEP: Estimated salable and total receipts 600. Scattered sales in the sheep division appeared unchanged. Aged weathers turned at $4.25-4.65 with a package aged bucks at $4.25. Cull ewes dropped to $2.50.

DR. KNAPP'S "TEN COMMANDMENTS OF AGRICULTURE"

Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, father of home demonstration work, was a great Bible student—had, in fact, been alternately agriculture teacher, country preacher, and farmer in early life—and early in his farm demonstration work he put into practice a lesson learned from the Old Testament. It was a lesson in definiteness. In substance he said: "A multitude of counsellors may make for confusion. Out of all the talk about what we need to do, why can't we reduce to its lowest terms just what are the essentials for successful farming in the South? Just as the Lord found it well to summarize all of Leviticus and Deuteronomy in ten short sentences, why can't we develop for the struggling small farmer ten commandments for agriculture?" Following are Dr. Knapp's famous "Ten Commandments of Agriculture," very slightly condensed and rearranged with appropriate headings:

1. Live at Home.—Produce all the food and feed required for the men and animals on the farm.

2. More livestock.—Increase the livestock by utilizing all the waste products and idle lands on the farm.

3. More power.—Accomplish more work in a day by using more horsepower and better implements.

4. Practice rotation.—Carry out a systematic crop rotation with a winter cover crop.

5. Richer lands.—By securing high content of humus in the soil from the use of legumes, barnyard manure, farm refuse, and commercial fertilizers.

6. Purebred seed.—Use seed of the best variety, intelligently selected and carefully stored.

7. Deep breaking.—Prepare a deep and thoroughly pulverized seedbed, well drained; break in fall to a depth of 8, 10, or 12 inches, reached gradually.

8. Proper spacing.—Give rows and plants spacing suited to plant, soil, and climate.

9. Good cultivation.—Use intensive tillage during the growing period of the crops.

10. Keep records.—Keep an account of each farm product, in order to know from which gain or loss arises.—The Progressive Farmer.

COTTON FARMERS

It is permissible for Medina county cotton producers to dispose of cotton to comply with the supplementary cotton program to bring their acreage reduction in line with the reduction indicated on their intention sheets, V. P. King, Chairman of the Medina county AAA committee, has announced.

This is made possible, King explained, by the recent amendment to the 1941 agricultural conservation program which provides that acreage will not be considered as planted to cotton if the cotton is disposed of before reaching the bolling stage or within ten days after notice of the seeded acreage is given, whichever is later.

"Under no circumstances, however, may cotton producers receive cotton stamps for reducing more acreage than he signed on his original intention sheet on the cotton stamp program," King pointed out.

"To make this ruling clearer," King said, "Assume, just for illustration, to bring out the point, that a cotton producer has a 1941 cotton allotment of 50 acres, planted 50 acres in 1940, and to receive cotton stamps, indicated a reduction of 2 acres. This would permit 48 acres to be planted to cotton for this year. However, when the cotton acreage was measured, he showed 49 acres planted. He would be allowed to dispose of 1 acre to come within his intended 48 acres but he would not receive cotton stamps on more than 2 acres since this was the amount signed on his original intention sheet."

Under the original definition of cotton, the acreage of cotton disposed of below the acreage allotment would still be classified as acreage planted to cotton.

The amendment also provides that if cotton is seeded but does not reach maturity, the smaller of (1) the acreage seeded to cotton, (2) 3 acres, or (3) 3 percent of the 1941 cotton allotment will be considered as having been planted to cotton. This provision was made, the AAA official pointed out, so that farms will not show zero acres of cotton when cotton was actually seeded.

The new amendment also permits producers to dispose of cotton acreage to come within total-soil-depleting acreages. By this method, deductions for over-planting total soil-depleting allotments will be avoided.

R. D. BURDEN, Secty.-Treas. Medina County.

FARMER

The farmer stands and looks upon his land; He feels its beauty, but he seldom tries To put it into words. He keeps his hand Upon the earth's strong pulse, so he is wise In signs of changing seasons. He has found Nature is full of whims—he cannot know What fate awaits the seed put in the ground And therefore answers, "Well-I" or "Maybe so" To queries. To the cocksure city-bred He leaves the sweeping statements. He is sure Only of this—that after men are dead, And wars are fought—still will these hills endure. There will be land and sky and sun and tree And greening fields—the miracle from seeds. And this, he knows, for his son's sons will be As much of beauty as a mortal needs! —ELEANOR OWEN PENICK In June Kaleidograph.

NOT ALL PIONEERS RODE IN COVERED WAGONS...

● Establishing and maintaining a Dependable Natural Gas Service requires years of pioneering—in exploring for Gas fields, drilling and producing Gas, and bringing it to market—often under the most difficult working conditions.

● The covered wagon pioneers were famed for their resourcefulness, their pluck and determination to succeed. The story of the development of Natural Gas Service is likewise one of courage, persistence, and accomplishment in the face of odds.

● And the pioneering is not ended. The employes of these Companies and associated Company are constantly at it . . . exploring new fields, far from home and comfort . . . "roughnecking" on drilling location . . . building pipe lines through forest and swamp . . . all to help perfect and preserve the reliability of our service and make it available to still wider markets.

● Not all pioneers rode in covered wagons. Our drilling crews and pipe liners can testify to that!

RECENT BRIDE HONORED

Mrs. Jim Ed Jenkins, who was Miss Virginia Moehring before her recent marriage, was honored with a miscellaneous shower from 3 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, July 13,
at the Quihi Gun Club Hall. White and yellow zinnias and Shasta daisies transformed the hall into a lovely reception room. The bride was led to her chair on the stage by little Miss Barbara Ann Brucks while Miss
Lucille Boehle played a march.

The following toast to the bride was read by Miss Aline Schlentz: Here's to Virginia—the brown-eyed maiden:

June brides! Wedding bells!
Each one the same story tells.
A trip you are going to take
In Love's beautiful ship, on life's rolling sea.

If the waves should rise and roar
Just be patient and love will lead
you to a peaceful shore.
Just a little bit of advice:
For instance:
The rolling pin is for biscuits and pies.

Not for Jim's head!
If your cooking he should despise,
Friends have come from far and near
with gifts of love.

Wishing you health and happiness,
What, dear Virginia? Can we wish you more?

Miss Ina Joyce Brucks was in charge of the bride's book.

Misses Clarice and Mary Lee Eckhart received the presents and later with Miss Aline Schlentz, assisted the honoree in opening and displaying the many beautiful gifts.

The white and yellow color scheme
was carried out in the refreshments
which consisted of chicken salad,
smacks, potato chips, white and yellow cake and mints, and iced tea.

The honoree wore her wedding dress, a navy blue sheer redingote with navy accessories. Barbara Ann Brucks was in white and navy and Mrs. Oscar Moehring, the bride's mother, was in grey crepe with beige accessories.

Hostesses were Mrs. Albert Eck-
hart of Bandera, Mrs. Edgar Balzen, Mrs. Earl Balzen, Mrs. Marvin Grell,
Mrs. Alfred Schlentz, Mrs. Joe W.
Brucks and Miss Ina Joyce Brucks.

JUDY LACY QUEEN OF RODEO

Miss Judy Lacy, chosen by the local Chamber of Commerce, to represent Hondo in the recent Fourth of July celebration in Sabinal, came home with top honors for herself and her town. Thursday evening a band concert was held at the new arena
when nine girls from different counties and towns contested for the title of Rodeo Queen. The girls, in their picturesque cowboy regalia, were judged on horsemanship. Miss Lacy was chosen to reign as Queen of Sabinal's Fourth of July Rodeo and Celebration. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lacy of Hondo and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Arthur Owens of Sabinal.

LOSE INFANT DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Wiemers of Bandera have the heartfelt sympathy of all who know them in the loss of their infant daughter, Virginia
Minnie. The little one was born July 11th at Medina Hospital, Hondo, and died July 12th, having lived
only about thirty-six hours.

The little body was tenderly laid to rest in Oakwood Cemetery at 3 o'clock P. M. Sunday, July 13, 1941, Rev. E. F. Kluck of Bandera conducting the funeral services.

Besides her bereaved parents, she is also mourned by two brothers, and numerous other relatives.

INFORMATION FOR JULY 1 REGISTRANTS

Sequence numbers for the 34,126
21-year-olds who registered in Texas
on July 1 will be drawn in the Second National Selective Service Lottery to be held in Washington, D. C., Thursday evening, General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director announced today.

The sequence numbers will determine the order in which these new registrants will be integrated among the old registrants who have order numbers larger than the last selec-tee of their local board who was involuntarily inducted before midnight, June 30, 1941, General Page stated.

"For an example," he said, "if a local board should happen to have 10
new registrants and 100 old registrants on its list whose order numbers follow that of the last involuntary inductee as of midnight June 30, then one new registrant would be placed after each group of 10 old registrants."

Any induction made after midnight June 30, will be ignored in the integration of new registrants among old ones, General Page stated.

The lottery, which will determine the sequence in which new registrants will be integrated among old ones, will be held in Departmental Auditorium, Washington, D. C., at 7 P. M. (E. S. T.) Thursday, July 17.

A set of serial numbers, each preceded by the letter "S", from "S-1"
to include the largest number used by any local board in the country in assigning serial numbers to July 1st registrants, will be drawn by lots.
Approximately 800 numbers will be drawn, General Page said.

The serial numbers in the order
they are drawn in the lottery will constitute a master list to be used by local boards in assigning "Sequence Numbers" to their July 1st registrants, in this manner:

The registrant in each local board area whose serial number first appears on this second master list will be given "Sequence Number 1" in his area; the registrant whose serial number is next closest to the top will receive "Sequence Number 2", and so on until each July 1st registrant
has a sequence number.

As was the procedure in connection with the previous national lottery in October, 1940, local boards
will cross off on the second master list and ignore those serial numbers
that are not held by any registrant
in their areas.

When sequence numbers have been assigned to all new registrants,
the local boards will assign each of these registrants an order number to be determined by integrating them among the old registrants. This means that the new registrant with Sequence No. 1 in his local board area will receive the lowest order number assigned to his group, and the registrant with the largest sequence number will receive the highest order number for the same group.

Frio will see clear, cool mountain streams, beautiful mountain drives,
towering cypress trees and majestic purple hills. Entrance to the camp grounds is free and you will find water, wood and swimming without charge. An elaborate program has been prepared to cover every moment of the time. Rev. Ira V. Garrison of Hondo is the business manager of the encampment.

The Hondo Volunteer Fire Department will meet tonight (Thursday)
to make plans for the next Firemen's annual and street dance which is to be held on Saturday night, August 9th. The Fire Company also expects work to begin Friday on the foundation for the new fire station building on their lots next to the Hondo Baptist church. The building, to be 10 x 40 feet, will be erected of hol-ow tile and will be fire-proof throughout. Contract has not yet been let for construction of the building, we were informed by H. Hollmig of the Fire Department.

E. R. Eudaly, extension dairyman, says that green grass is much higher in protein than dry grass. Protein is the element that stimulates milk production, and green grass is high in minerals. Many good cows do not produce as much in the spring as they could even though they produce more than at other periods of the year.
The reason is that protein in the grain mixture is not kept in balance with that in the grass. There should be enough protein to supply
the cows' needs for maintenance and milk production, but too much should not be fed. Feed that is too high in protein is bound to be low in carbohydrates, and a cow must have sufficient carbohydrates to furnish the energy to walk, digest her feed and produce sugar and fat in the milk. A cow might get enough protein to produce five gallons of milk and only enough carbohydrates to produce three gallons. In that case
she can produce only three gallons
after she has drawn upon her body
for the carbohydrates required to make the extra two gallons. As young, tender grass is high in protein and low in carbohydrates the cow should be fed a grain mixture high in the latter and low in the former.

For the fifth consecutive year
wider use of approved dairy practices, especially among rural youth, will be encouraged under the national 4-H dairy production demonstration program, according to L. L. Johnson, state boy's club agent of the Texas Extension Service, 4-H boys with the supervision of county extension agents will learn more about feeding, breeding, growing, fitting and judging of dairy cattle and the production of high-grade milk and cream on farms. Winners in state eliminations will attend a national dairy show in Memphis, Tenn. next October.

Mrs. Berta McCall and daughters,
Misses Ivy Jean and Merle McCall, returned Saturday from a five weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Peters and family at Glendale, Calif. They were accompanied home by Mrs.
Sudie Laughinghouse and daughter, Miss Lela Laughinghouse, and grand-

ar will thrive in this climate and be plentifully distributed throughout Texas.

QUIHI NOTES

And when they saw him afar off
even before he came near unto them,
they conspired against him to slay
him. Gen. 37:18.

The climax is in sight. Rolling, threatening clouds ever since that coat-tragedy started; then a silent
leadon sky with distant rumblings
and feverish zigzags of lightning chasing each other. The horrid crash, just a matter of brief moments now. Not a warning voice, not an alarming sign for Joseph, far from home, wandering leisurely,
clad in his shining coat, seeking his brethren to convey greetings from home, from their families, and thinking about their welfare. He walks as a man with a good conscience. His protecting God, is He asleep?

Sin grows fast. Jealousy and envy will not abide by sordid, revengeful sentiments. It presses toward a definite action, toward extinction and destruction of the man who caused all the flurry and excitement. Now is the chance to dispatch the dreamer. "Let us slay him, and cast him into some pit, and we will say, Some evil beast hath devoured him, and we shall see what will become of his dreams." What brethren! What a conspiracy! What a unity of action! What a miscalculation in trying to secure an imaginary right by a wrong, to ease a heart by loading it down, crushing
it, with an evil conspiracy, a foul murder! How fast that inventive mind works, fired by an unholy zeal,
in fabricating a "redeeming" lie, in order to cover the criminal tracks,
by the story of the "evil beast", and stand perfectly harmless and innocent before the terror-stricken father,
before the whole world.

The same old, new story: The nag knows no hives, the wheels do zip, when the devil drives and cracks the whip!
Obviously he fans the flames under those offensive concoctions, he marshals and manages the forces behind these clever conspiracies, and he knows but one party, and that's himself. Will those "brethren" get by with it? Will it gag and mislead the Lord? How often sinful man feels himself by aligning himself with the forces of Hades!

Some sins leave a particularly slimy path. And some sins take with humanity more than others. Conspiracies march pretty well ahead on both of these directions. Human history is plastered with them. Jew and Gentile, ancient and modern times, learned from each other. Even the church has a series of dark chapters in that category. Christ fell a victim to the conspiracy of his "brethren", Joseph being a prototype, a forerunner and parallel to him in more than one comparison.

St. Paul suffered throughout his missionary career with these malicious interferences. The first three centuries after Christ formed one solid conspiracy against the growing young Christian church. The most powerful potentates operated on these premises, on economic, diplomatic or military conspiracy. Often
"a mighty maze! but not without a plan." Often with the "Joseph",
the feared or smeared and branded culprit "afar off, even before he came near unto them" and having harmed no one of the conspiring
"brethren". Just a matter of precaution, of policy, of "a business with an income at its heels", often a matter of bolstered up necessity and "necessity knows no law", Rabelais lyngly proclaimed, often instigated by an ominous apprehension.
"united we stand, divided we hang"
individually, but always with the ultimate intent, "to slay him" and cover
the crime by some lying pretext.

Times copy from each other. We have learned. The technique of conspiracy may be more refined and systematized in its various agencies,
now loud, now lying low, now magnifying, then minimizing, now with trial-balloons, then with a bedlam of concerted motives and charges, now with timid denials and then with a brazen affront. Methods vary, man remains the same, "man, proud man,
drest in a little brief authority",
man "the most awful instrument in working out a pure intent." What a patience on the part of God with those sinful, conspiring "brethren"
of Joseph, of all times, where the spearhead of the movement ever so often pierces His holy will and authority. Of many of these chapters on conspiracy, the after-world declares with pursed lips, "A tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, and signifying nothing." It knows little of the blood and despair, little of the final verdict written by God.

THE CARDINALS

I heard a lively song commence,
And then I saw on the garden fence
A red bird merrily hopping along Almost bursting his throat with song.

The song he sang was full of glee.
With one brief glance I could see That he was as perky as he could be,
Then I saw his wife in the maple tree.

She flew down and perched on the gate.
Her color was duller than that of her mate.

But she was pretty and appeared
quite gay,
As she listened to what he had to say.

They both sat there for a little while,
Then they flew away in their cardinal style.

They now were bent on a most serious quest—
They must find a place to build their nest.

What happened after that I do not know,
Because I had to leave in a day or so.

But the very last thing of them that I saw—
They were both busily gathering
straw.

A LITTLE HOME TOWN

O, I long to live, in a little town,
With a few short streets running up,
and down;
And a little church, with its lofty
spire,
Mid the spreading elms, which tower
still higher.

And a neighbor coming in the back door,
With a ready hand, to help with a chore;
Or bring the gossip, in a nice way,
And learn what you're planning to do today.

If you are ailing, she'll come at your
call,
When danger threatens, she'll stand . . . a brick wall;
You are known, and loved, e'en without renown,
By neighbors, and friends, in a little home town.

HONDO, TEXAS, JULY 18, 1941

Washington Snapshots by JAMES PRESTON

The important House Military Affairs Committee, headed by Representative May of Kentucky, numbers 17 Democrats and 11 Republicans in its membership. But it rose above partisanship and reached heights of real statesmanship in the majority report on defense which it made a short time ago.

The document in question is worth serious study by anyone interested in the defense situation. Unfortunately it doesn't receive much initial attention, for the Committee, more serious-minded than publicity-wise, made it public on a Saturday. As a result, it appeared in the newspapers the following day, and anyone who has ever tackled a three-pound metropolitan Sunday edition knows that any single piece of news has a pretty good chance of getting lost and "buried" there.

The report is a big affair, the outcome of many weeks of careful study, and only a few of its main thoughts can be summarized here. It is most notable as a piece of statesmanship for the unflinching way in which it lays the blame for deficiencies of the defense program, such as they are, squarely on the shoulders of government. That took realism and courage.

Serious present deficiencies in defense, the committee frankly declared, were attributable largely to "absence of a responsible head with authority and power," and to too much zeal in recent years for "social reform rather than national security." It asked for greater "vision" on the part of government officials, and then lashed out with a strong indictment of the present tendency towards more and more bureaucracy as a substitute for intelligent planning.

"The Administration has been too prone when difficult problems arose to easily dispose of them by creating another board, only to add to the confusion of the assortment of agencies we now have."

Though the report is extremely critical, it is one of the most encouraging releases to come out of Washington in a long time, simply because it really tries to get at the truth of the situation, let the chips fall where they may.

—WSS—
One large company that is playing a big part in the defense program has been accumulating a merchant fleet of its own. And a certain so-called "liberal" publication doesn't like the idea of the company's failing to accept government assistance.

Here is the story:
Most steamship companies with merchant shipping plans apply to the government for a subsidy. When they receive the funds, the organizations concerned are compelled by law to open not only their own books, but the books of all affiliated companies, to inspection by the Maritime Commission. In other words, a considerable degree of government regulation is the price paid for the subsidy.

This particular company, however, chose to pay all its own expenses in building up its fleet. So the "liberal" publication comments sourly that "Congress never anticipated that any shipper might ignore the subsidy."

All of which is highly reminiscent of the old story about the soapbox radical who shouted, "Comes the revolution, you'll eat strawberries and cream—and like it!"

—WSS—
INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE: One of the most recent government publications is titled "Food Habits of the American Coot, with Notes on Distribution." Your reporter hasn't read this little pamphlet yet, but he can't help wondering whether this is the coot that some people are supposed to be crazy as.

By the way, the coot classic is published by the Bureau of Biological Survey, a division of the Fish and Wildlife Service, which has now been classified as a "defense agency." That leads to a further question pondered by many observers: Can it be that the Fish and Wildlife Service, along with other non-defense agencies, was thus re-classified in order to confuse the issue at a time when the press and public were actively clamoring for non-defense economies to make up in part for our defense expenditures?

FISH ATE PEANUTS

In these days of advancement in the use of peanuts for many different foods and other products, the sportsmen might add to the consumption of the goober believes Alfred Haby, a concessionaire on Medina Lake. Mr. Haby reported to the game department biologists that he recently caught a pound and a half catfish which had an extra big stomach. Upon cutting open the fish Mr. Haby discovered it had swallowed a half sack of salted peanuts.

Mr. Haby wondered if fish would bite peanuts on a hook and finally succeeding baiting hooks by tying halves of peanuts around the shanks of hooks. It worked only fair, one fish being caught on a half dozen hooks the first night.

The Medina Lake concessionaire is one of the true conservationists in Texas. A bass spawned on the steps of his deck this spring and until the eggs hatched and the little bass swam away he would not allow any kind of fishing off that section of his dock.

OLDER DRAFTÉES DEFERRED

General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, today announced that all Texas' local boards have been instructed to defer induction of men who, on July 1, 1941, had reached the age of twenty-eight years.

General Page said that National Selective Service Headquarters has been assured by Congressional leaders that the age provisions of the bill to defer men who had attained the age of twenty-eight years on or before July 1, 1941, will be passed in substantially their present form since there is no difference of opinion as to the merits of these provisions of the bill.

As the bill is now written, General Page pointed out, such men will be subject to discharge if inducted on or after July 1, 1941.

Based on the statements of Congressional leaders and the provisions making the bill retroactive to July 1, 1941, for discharge, Texas' local boards have today been informed by State Headquarters that the induction of all men who had attained the age of twenty-eight years on or before July 1, 1941, shall be postponed for a period of thirty days pending final action on the bill.

"Of course, in the event the bill is not passed," General Page added, "such men will be subject to induction in the normal manner upon the expiration of the period of postponement."

In Texas, it is estimated, approximately 400,000 of the 825,429 men who registered last October are affected by this order.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN HINTS

Velma Hambleton
Medina County Home Demonstration Agent

Be Wise! Make Your Own Trees at Home.

It is hoped nobody in Texas will go peach hungry this year in the face of a two and one-half million bushel peach crop, but we must assure the future of the same production of this health-giving food.

At this time of the year we should save all peach seed and if we don't have any at home, it will not be difficult to secure some from the neighbors. A few gallons of seed saved now will be a sufficient beginning for an acre or two in fruit.

As the seed are saved we should keep them moist by digging a small hole in the ground and covering the seed up, then moistening them from time to time to keep them from drying out. In September plant the seed one to two inches deep, spacing them one to two inches apart in the row. This should be done in soil that is deep and will stay moist. In the early spring the seed will sprout and by June you will have a large number of seedling peach trees ready for budding to improved varieties. Remember—SAVE THE SEED NOW! Don't Let Trees Sunburn

The orchard owner who has set out an orchard during the past season, or who has set out a few shade trees in the yard should wrap the trunks with paper to protect them from the July and August sun.

Poison Trees Now
In pecan groves where there is foreign timber to be destroyed now is the time to apply poison solution to get rid of these undesirable trees. From now until September is the best time since the growing season of the tree is over and they will die more quickly. Sharpen the axe and cut through the bark, overlapping each cut. Pour in one tablespoon of the following poison solution for each six inches of cut made:

1 1/2 gals. of water	1 lb. lye
2 lbs. of Sal Soda	2 lbs. of white arsenic

Heat the water to boiling and add the sal soda first, then the lye SLOWLY. Add the white arsenic last, and when all the solids have dissolved, remove from the fire.

WARNING: If livestock are in the area where the trees are being poisoned, it is best to remove them for a period of ten to fourteen days. During this time sap is likely to be running from the cuts in the trees and if this sap is licked by the animals, death may result. As soon as the period of sap oozing is over, there is little danger of injury to livestock.

Garden Seed May be Scarce Next Year

Now that beans, squash, cucumbers, tomatoes, cantaloupes, watermelons, and sweet corn are maturing, it is an easy matter to pick out some of the best fruits and save the seed. After the seed have been extracted from the pod or rind, wash them thoroughly and spread out to dry. Store in cotton sacks or containers that will allow air to penetrate. Store seed in cool dark places.

Copies of the Milking Shorthorn Year Book may be obtained free of charge from the Milking Shorthorn Society, 7 Dexter Park Ave., Chicago, Ill., it is announced by the Society. The Milking Shorthorn is a popular breed for a general purpose cow on the farm.

By GEORGE MARSH

"What! The strait is closed?" gasped McDonald, seizing Skene by the shoulder. "Frozen solid, he said! Hallo, there, Saul!" cried the excited trader to the fast-traveling dog-team. "You, Pierre! Get after him and bring him back. Tell him we'll give him his price. Strait frozen! H—I, Skene! Now we've got to fight for that fur!"

Skene was over the rail with the shrieking interpreter and running toward the sled, which had come to a stop. Slowly the old man turned his dogs toward the schooner.

"The clever beggar!" exclaimed McDonald in admiration. "Played us like a salmon. Waited to spring his trump card, and got his own price without a haggle! Knew he was shrewd—nervy! Speaks English, too! The old wizard! He's the chap we need now. Our little job is to stop a stampede across that ice for the Christmas feast that Guthrie has promised the Crees at Elkwan."

Skene swung over the rail and announced to his chief: "Saul says he'll start north at once and agrees to hold his relations and most of the rest on the terms he offered. He's ready to bind the bargain with you, personally."

"Good!" And McDonald vaulted over the schooner's rail, followed by Skene and Brennutt.

"The strait was closed two sleeps back? Where?" he demanded of the Indian.

"Ovair de shoul at Beeg point."

"You saw it?"

"I cross to de Elkwan."

"What? You've crossed the ice to the post?"

The Indian nodded, his stone-hard features an enigma to the men who sought to read them.

"What did you learn?"

"Dis Guthrie know de ice set, and all de Cree cum to Elkwan. He say he geve me nothing to work for beem."

DRY SPRAY NEW TREATMENT FOR ROUP AND COLDS

Breathing Difficulties Relieved by Dust Gun Method

Gray Summit, Mo.—A grown-up man knows that a clean handkerchief not only helps him to prevent the spread of his cold, but aids him in relieving his own suffering. Young children have difficulty because they don't know how to use a handkerchief, and have to be taught to blow their noses. But children can't be taught to blow their noses, so something else must be done.

A lot of remedies and cures have been tried to relieve the suffering of flocks with colds. Most of the treatments bring discomfort to the birds, and little improvement in their condition. Fumes burned on a brick, and damp sprays have been the most common methods of treatment, neither very successful. Damp sprays usually give birds more cold by leaving their feathers damp through the night, and as grave infection of the respiratory organs.

Powder Spray Found Best

To overcome the disadvantages of fumes and wet sprays, a dust gun is used here at the Purina Experimental Farm. The poultry house is filled with a cloud of antiseptic, disinfecting powder after the birds have gone to roost. This clears up the nasal passages of the birds and at the same time surrounds them with an antiseptic powder which helps prevent the spread of disease.

Causes Birds to Sneeze
The new dust spray recommended for treating colds and roup is an efficient germicide and disinfectant. Chlorine powder. Spraying Chlorine powder over the birds causes sneezing and expels the accumulations of mucus from the upper respiratory tract. Chlorine powder should be dusted into the air just over the birds' heads until the air in the house is full of the floating dust, and the birds are sneezing freely. The house should then be tightly closed for thirty minutes, and opened only slightly for ventilation during the night. This powder-dry spray is both convenient and economical to use. It has an advantage over wet sprays in that it cannot possibly cause more colds or leave the birds damp and chilled through the night. After one thorough and complete treatment, birds may not need to be treated with chlorine powder again, except for light daily dustings.

Pay-As-You-Go
The only elective public office Governor Alf Landon has ever held is that of governor of Kansas, in which he has served two terms, and has given to the state four years of unusual administration on a strictly pay-as-you-go basis.

Saul Souel grinned into the gaping faces surrounding him. "Onlee Saul Souel get you all dat fox from de nord, now."

McDonald thrust out a red, mittless hand. "It's a bargain! You bring that trade here and you get three rifles, three shotguns, and the value of ten prime black fox in trade."

Dropping his rabbit-skin mitten on its neck, Souel took the extended hand of the trader. "Kiyam appowya, it ees good," he said, solemnly. Thrusting his hand into the hanging mitten, he cracked the whip of platted caribou thongs over his lead dog's ears, and again started for the shore, leaving behind him on the ice an arguing group of mystified and excited men.

CHAPTER VII

The morning subsequent to the nights of withering frost which clinched the grip of the ice on the west coast, Garth and Etienne, muffled in blanket capotes and fur robes, drove their five-dog team, hitched to a runner sled for ice-work, out of the closed delta of the Elkwan and down the coast. Inland, the wide marshes reached the ripples of drift, like a white sea, to the outguards of the space, or lay, parti-colored, patches of dead grass brushed of snow, splashing the white levels with ochre and dun. Splitting the frozen shell of the strait broken by pressure ridges and heaps of shattered ice, a streak of black to the east marked the still open channel. Beyond, the hidden sun, breaking from the bay, rimmed the harbors of Akimiski with fire.

But it was to the south, where the great point of the island pushed its bulk into the strait that Garth hoped to find that the abnormal December cold had built a bridge of ice to Akimiski. Over the easy going of wind-hammered snow and shore ice, the dogs romped past the frozen benches. At a sandspit strewn with boulders Garth stopped. With a hand from Etienne, he reached the top of a large rock and taking his binoculars from their case, studied the miles of ice-sheathed shoals which followed the thrust of Big Point toward the mainland. As he looked, his lips moved in a muttered note of surprise. Could it be that luck had come to Elkwan—to Garth Guthrie, in the shape of a road of ice from Akimiski before Christmas?

"Come up here, quick!" he called to the man at the sled. The half-breed scrambled to the top of the boulder. "I can't make out open water over there," said Garth, excitedly. "You take a look. It was a mile wide the day before the blow."

Dropping his mittens, Etienne took the proffered glasses. Until his hands reddened with cold, he stood as if hewn from the boulder. Then, when the column of his frosted breath misted the lenses, he handed the glasses to Garth, his eyes snapping with excitement. "De ice set ovair dem bar; we cross today and hunt old Souel!" he cried, sliding from the boulder and running to the impatient dogs.

"We'll take rations for a week," said Guthrie, "round up the Elkwan hunters Saul is sure of, and chase them over the ice. McDonald may not know for days that the strait is closed here. He's thirty miles away."

The willing huskies, urged by the crack of Etienne's whip, took the back trail to the post on the run. The success of the undertaking hung largely on speed, and while Marie loudly bewailed the rashness of the crossing, seconded by the vehement protests of old Anne, tent, robes and provisions were hurriedly stowed and lashed.

When Anne opened the gate, with a leap shot reached Guthrie, busy with a sled lashing, and man and dog rolled in the snow. Shielding his face with a mittened hand from the attacks of a hot tongue, Garth finally calmed the delirious dog, while Etienne checked the yelping huskies, keen to punish such familiarity with the factor of Elkwan.

South of the Big Point shoals, the great Attawapiskat, carrying the drainage of a vast hinterland, debouched through two mouths, a wide delta, and eight miles to the south, a single channel, the Lowaski. Snug in his tight little post above the delta of the upper mouth of the river, Garth, the factor, independent of the fox skins of Akimiski, waited for the rich trade from the interior to come to him. But some of the hunters trading at the post always wintered on the island and before he crossed in search of Saul, Guthrie wished to get the latest news from Albany and arrange for the dispatch of a dog-team, informing his chief of his crossing to the island. How far the crew of the schooner were prepared to go in the struggle for the trade, he had no means of knowing, but of their energy and daring there was no doubt. If Souel were successful and the free-traders attempted to interfere with the hunters crossing to Elkwan, there might be an ugly row. So the fast dog-team doubled back down the coast ice and before noon drew in to the high shore at Attawapiskat.

Graham looked up in surprise to see the tall figure of his neighbor to the north walk into the trade-room. Graham was old and waiting only for his service pension. His days with the dogs on the shore ice or inland over the white barriers were over. If McDonald were wintering on the island there would be little Akimiski fox traded at a Hudson's Bay post that year. Of that he was sure. He couldn't see how crossing to the island after the strait closed would help the matter. The schooner would get the Christmas trade and pick up the fur through the winter as it was trapped. It was hard on Elkwan, but he had his upriver trade. McDonald couldn't touch that. Thus Graham, who looked but two years of retirement, and loved the comfort of his snug quarters.

"Well, what brings you here in thirty-below weather?" he replied to Guthrie's salutation. "I've been hugging a fire for a week, trying to thaw out."

Guthrie laughed. "I'm on my way to the island, Graham. I want you to relay this letter to Cameron—"

"The island!" Graham gasped in surprise. "How—you mean the strait's closed—set over the shoals?"

"Yes!" And Guthrie hastily outlined the situation on Akimiski and his plans.

"You think Souel will control the Elkwan hunters? Why should they Graham Looked Up in Surprise.

cross the ice to you when McDonald will pay more for their pelts?"

Guthrie's face reflected his irritation. "Graham, I'm employed to get fur—not smoke by the stove and wait for it to come in. As Cameron expects this letter and Christmas is only ten days away I'll thank you to start a team with it at once."

The victim of Guthrie's sarcasm reddened under the ruthless characterization of his sedentary tendencies, but his pension was near, and the risk of a dash over the young ice was Guthrie's, not his, so he magnanimously overlooked the thrust.

"I'll send a team, yes, if that's Cameron's orders. I'll say you're a fool, though, to cross. A good wind will break up that new ice and cut you off. It's never in my memory closed before January. Still, it's your job, not mine. Go ahead and get yourself drowned, if you want to."

"Some of your people winter there?"

"Oh, yes! Six or eight families. But I can't help that."

"No, you can't," agreed Guthrie, catching Etienne's furtive look. "Well, we'll have just about light enough to cross in, so I'll start."

As the dogs hurried over the wind-brushed shell of the strait, broken by drifts and hummocks, split by tide cracks, irregular with crushed ice masses lifted into pressure ridges, the eyes of the men on the light sled were focused far out on what, the week before, had been impassable black water. Eight miles out, half way across, its drift ice, thrall to tide and wind, had threatened with swift ruin the eggshell of a canoe, which challenged its barrier. But now, over the shoals, the channel had been sealed. As the dog-team reached the newly frozen gap, Etienne and Guthrie went ahead to test the ice with axes. In defiance of the tide, the fierce frost had set three-inch ice. Anxiously the men swept the width of the channel with glasses. There were no breaks. So, led by the scurrying aledale and Guthrie, with Etienne driving the huskies from the tail of the sled, they took the crossing on the run.

A half-mile out when fear of thin ice had left him and he swung along with Shot in front, Garth suddenly felt the ice vibrate beneath his mocassins. The sled with the dogs would go through, unless they came with a rush. Turning as he ran, he waved to Etienne—their agreed-upon signal for speed.

"Marche! mes enfants!" The long caribou thong cracked on the lead dog's ears. With a surprised yelp Castor, spreading his feet, came with the team at a wild gallop. On they rushed, straining, slipping, huskies, nats scratching the ice for footing, and swinging toboggan, urged on by Etienne, for a break through meant swift drowning for the dogs from the drag of the sled, and freezing in the stinging wind for the driver, if he reached firm ice.

FLOWERS

By Annie L. Towler.

Flowers are mysteries fairy like
Heaven's loan to earth,
Greeting us along life's path,
From the hour of birth.
Welding friendship's love, and faith
Alike for rich and poor,
A balm for tears and deep heart
ache,
When sorrow darks our door.
Flowers for brides and wedding bells
Bouquets for the sweet,
Flowers for sickroom, welcoming too—
Folk with wandering feet.
Flowers, how sad this poor old earth
With no flower to cheer,
All praise to Him who fashioned flowers
And sent their blossoms here.

FLOWERS FOR HAPPINESS

By Annie L. Towler.

Mrs. Colvin walked slowly along the street toward her little home. The morning was lovely, the sun shining, little baby flowers blooming in small front yards, children were romping over the green grass, neighbors were leaning on dividing fences chatting together. Mrs. Colvin didn't see or hear them. She was trying to realize that for the first time in all the years of her married life she found herself alone.

Three weeks ago she had laid away her good kind husband, Jim Colvin. They would have been married forty years this summer, forty years planning, working, raising their three children. They were all three married now and living in different states.

She had just been to the station to see her youngest and only daughter off on the train. They had all come to see their father laid away in the little cemetery on the out edge of the small town of Blendvale, where she and Jim had lived ever since they were married. Her two sons had left the first week but Nettie had stayed on, hating to leave her poor mother alone.

They had all begged her to take turns living with them. She had finally said no to all of them.

She had thought about John's offer the longest; John, her eldest son, the one more like his father. John told her he considered it a privilege to have his mother in his home, to take care of her for the remaining years of her life.

Mrs. Colvin thought about what John had said all of one night only to discard it by morning. If it had been only John! But John was struggling to take care of a rather helpless wife and five children.

She couldn't let herself become a burden on John. Then there was Harry. Flighty Harry everyone called him, but he was her darling Harry. He was always going to do big things, but so far, the biggest thing he had ever done was to go out west and get himself a wife. And now he also had a family to support. So she had thanked Harry and told him perhaps later on.

But to Nettie, who had left only this morning, she had unfolded her plans if such an empty life could hold a plan.

She intended to stay in her little home, the home Jim and she had built and lived in, raised their children in, and loved. It was true that she had never spent a night alone in her life. Jim had never formed the habit of leaving her alone nights, and as she told Nettie she wasn't afraid, didn't her neighbors' houses nearly touch hers on either side? And, too, she would keep the telephone in case she needed anything—well, all she had to do was call.

"But, mother," said Nettie, "how will you live? What on? Will and I will do all we can to help, but you know we are only just getting started ourselves." "Well," said the thoughtful Mrs. Colvin, "there's a little left of your father's life insurance. Of course, we had to borrow on it at the last, and then of course the funeral expenses. But there will be a little left. I will get along, you will see." Then she told Nettie what she had been planning all the long nights while she sat by Jim's bedside realizing she would one day be left alone.

"You know, Nettie, I always wanted to raise flowers, but I never had any time. What with house work, washing, ironing, children with whooping cough, measles, mumps, and all the meals to get, sewing and everything, well, I just never found time. Now I'll have time, and so, as I'll need something to keep my mind and hands busy, I'll raise flowers."

Nettie gazed at her frail looking mother and asked: "But how will that help toward making a living?"

"Well, I'll just put up a nice little sign out front—CUT FLOWERS, BOUQUETS—and you'll see." "How will you dig the ground?" "Now, my dear, don't worry. A boy will dig for me. Anyway, I'll try it."

Mrs. Colvin was thinking all these things over as she turned in on her little front walk, but her heart had a sudden falling feeling. Always before some one had been there to greet her. Jim would call out from the bedroom. "That you, Jannie?" Now, only silence met her.

She took off her coat and hat for it was still early spring and walked through the little house and out into the back yard. Yes, she could raise a lot of flowers. The ground in the back lot was rich, too. Once they had kept some chickens and raised a little garden. But the chickens and chicken house were gone long ago, as the town grew up around them, but the plot of ground was good and rich.

She would plan it all out, and get the Howell boy across the street to do the digging.

"Good morning, Mr. Colvin," called her next-door neighbor. "Nettie gone?" "Yes, I just got back from the station." "Well, that's too bad; that leaves you alone, don't it?" Mrs. Colvin stooped over to pet the big fluffy cat that she called Blue Boy who was now rubbing against her slim ankles. "Yes, Mrs. Scott, but I just have to get used to it. I'm glad you're so near to me. I remember the time I resented neighbors moving so close; now I'm glad. I won't feel afraid at night with neighbors so near."

The next Monday morning found Mrs. Colvin very busy. She was walking all over the back yard, followed by a tall, slim, freckled-faced, sandy-haired boy of fifteen, known as that Howell boy. He carried a spade and rake. "Now, here is where I want the tallest flowers against this fence, and paths between, so they will be easy to pick and cut. Along the south fence, I want my sweet peas. Now just dig it all up," said Mrs. Colvin. Soon, every available place was planted to flowers. Warm spring rains and warmer nights were followed by sunny days and Mrs. Colvin's flowers sprang up like magic. One day a few weeks later Mrs. Colvin walked to town and came home with a nice little sign.

She had the Howell boy come over and plant a post and nail the sign up. By this time her neighbors knew that Mrs. Colvin intended to try selling flowers. She put a little advertisement in the daily paper too. Soon, the very nicest cars began to stop in front of the little house.

Mrs. Colvin grows the loveliest flowers, said her first few customers, and they told others. Soon her hands were busy all day long, picking flowers, making bouquets, planting other flowers.

She was so tired when nights came she would just fall into bed—and drop to sleep as soon as her head touched the pillow.

On Sundays she wrote to the children but there was never a word of how tired she felt. Sometimes, when she was bending over her flowers, she would imagine she heard Jim calling, and she would turn toward the house. Then she would remember. At these times, she would promise herself a walk after supper over to the little cemetery. She would gather some of her most beautiful flowers for Jim. She would stand there by his lowly flower covered plot. "I am getting along, Jim," she would say.

Turning home again she would plan for the morrow. Her flowers were growing fine. Blue Boy would come along the walk to meet her, and purr around her ankles. Why, she was happy, she thought. She didn't feel lonely any more.

JOSEPH'S TOMB!
Joseph had labored with a sturdy will Carving a tomb from a rocky hill While all the neighbors he had known Spoke of the grave that would be his own. But that day, the Christ of Galilee Suffered in shame and died on a tree; Then Joseph cried, "My Master is slain; Let His dear form, in my tomb be laid in!"

Three days of sorrow cast a dismal pall Over the group, near the stony wall, Bringing their myrrh and spices near. Lo, as they come, an angel doth appear In shining garments, saying "Christ is risen!" And gone is the gloom of Joseph's prison!

FABLE
Patiently the old horse stood By the side of the hitching rack. The hay in the meadow nearby looked good— He would like to have some, if only he could; But tied he was, as he understood, As he was in his youth away back.

Now the fact is that he hadn't been tied For many a long, long day. He might have left, if only he'd tried And wandered over the meadow wide With none to hinder and none to guide, While he helped himself to the hay. I trust a moral you won't disdain: Perhaps some of us vision a bar When some much desired field we would gain, Yet fancy that we can never attain: So the moral is—let me make it plain.

YOU ARE TIED IF YOU THINK YOU ARE.

ANVIL SPARKS.

Continued from First Page simple as that. Real "excess profits" are taxed now—and they are taxed plenty. The great danger is that in our zeal to raise money we will tax away those modest, normal profits which are absolutely essential to the maintenance and development of all industry.

It is for this reason that the excess profits tax is potentially one of the most menacing weapons. Business must have profits to attract new capital. It must have profits to establish needed credit. It must have profits to rapidly expand in such extraordinary periods as the present. And it must have profits to build up reserves against that day when the war will be over, the defense boom will have burst, and it will have to readjust itself and get back to normal.

The government is entirely right in insisting that there shall be no profiteering in defense—business backs up that stand to the limit. But we will make a terrible mistake if we use the taxing power to drain normal industry dry. That, in the long run, would mean ruin for us all.—Industrial News Review.

WOULD CHRIST APPROVE?

Some years ago a bunch of well-meaning, if rather visionary people, undertook the rather ambitious and, shall we say, egotistical task of establishing a daily newspaper to be run "as Christ would run it".

Out of that idea sprang the Christian Science Monitor.

And it has been a remarkable achievement as a daily paper.

But we fear that its Anglomaniac has caused it to "fall from grace"—or as our Methodist brethren would say, "back-slide".

Among all the many "all out aid for Britain" claquers it has doubtless claqued earliest and loudest!

On the ninth of April, in a petulant mood because things were not moving in its direction fast enough, the Monitor said editorially:

"There is very little evidence that American military supplies have reached Greece in any quantity. Supplies sent to Britain may have helped the British to transfer material and men to the Greek front. THERE IS EVIDENCE THAT THE PROMISE CONTAINED IN PASSAGE OF THE LEND-LEASE ACT ENCOURAGED IF IT DID NOT INDUCE THE BRITISH TO RISK AN ARMY IN GREECE. American promises are ALSO said to have aided THE YUGOSLAV DECISION TO RESIST."

In other words, this administration's extravagant promises of intervention in other's quarrel, according to the Monitor, is THE CAUSE of the disastrous loss of life and property which overtook those two unfortunate countries.

Aside from whatever pride the administration has in its achievement, done at the urging of the Monitor, we can't help but wonder if He who made Peter sheathe his sword and healed the wound it had made would run the Monitor as it is now being run.

Would Christ approve?

ONE WHOLOSOME EFFECT

The Webster Progress of Eupora, Webster County, Mississippi, of Thursday, July 10, 1941, comments as follows:

"While driving through Hondo, Texas, last week, coming back home from a long tour of the Southwest, Editor W. O. Rutledge, Jr., of the New Albany Gazette, LIGHTENED HIS PRESSURE ON THE GAS ACCELERATOR. Reason: He saw a big sign announcing: 'This is God's Country. Don't drive through it like Hell.'"

That is one wholesome effect the sign is designed to produce; but our Mississippi compeer should have done more than hesitate in such an environment. He should have stopped and gotten acquainted with God's Country.

One of the worst overworked bugbears ever hatched in the malignant minds of designing men is the carefully nurtured notion that we have anything to fear from cheap foreign labor. The notion comes in thinking of all values in terms of money instead of materials. What advantage has the consumer of potatoes whose dollar a day buys no more potatoes than the ten cents per day of the Chinaman? It is not the number of dollars and cents—mere abstract terms that may constantly vary up or down—but the quantity of needed commodities a man's labor will earn that counts. That being a fact, why fear a free exchange of needful commodities with any people on earth? The country that sends its commodities to our country would have to take our commodities in exchange. Thus production would be stimulated in both countries, living costs become more standardized at a lower level and consumption increase with a corresponding higher standard of living for both countries. There could be no trade wars under universal free trade; a free people should demand free trade intercourse with the whole world.

Democracy is a collection of co-ordinate principles by adherence to which a people can insure their political, economic and social freedom. Being PRINCIPLES they are eternal and can never die. But any people, through avarice, lethargy or ignorance, may fail democracy by failing to guard its principles from subversive influences. Once sold for greed, neglected through indolence or betrayed by the designing taking advantage of the ignorant, the people pay in loss of liberty and economic security. America should guard well her heritage of democracy.

Hotel waitresses are going to school in Texas. A special course for waiters and waitresses is offered by the University of Texas Industrial Teacher-Training Bureau, says a University of Texas News Service release. Wonder if that training includes the skill of uncapping a beer bottle without losing any of the contents in foam? What things are expected of higher education—at John Taxpayer's expense!

No doubt now that O'Daniel's enemies in the Texas Legislature—as he predicted they would—have ousted him from the Governorship by boosting him to the Senatorship, they have earned the enmity of the new deal bunch that is now simulating, at least, displeasure at having him wished off on them. What devious ways politicians have of playing the game.

"What's the use" has been the funeral dirge of many a desire that deserved a better fate!

One good deed done is worth dozens only dreamed!

Who fears too much loses many battles that are never fought!

Only the wise, the brave, the discreet can remain the free!

Achilles' Heel.

The recent senatorial contest in Texas definitely established the fact that no politician is infallible, especially in the Lone Star Commonwealth. A year ago Governor W. Lee O'Daniel was at the peak of his public career, smashing precedent as the only gubernatorial candidate in this state to win twice in succession on the first primary of the democrat party.

Today he is just another politician faced with the difficult task of regaining his popularity.

Win or lose in that senatorial race, the governor's prestige with the electorate has hit a new low. It is now known that he can be beat. The legislators and other professional politicians will no longer tremble at the growl of the big bad wolf. Whatever his course, politically, his opposition has found out how to bait him, and the bandwagon vote will not be in his vest pocket.

Achilles had a heel!

While the blessing from Washington, the bitter and well directed campaign of organized labor, and the extravagant and almost scandalous expenditure of money in behalf of the candidacy of Congressman Lyndon Johnson were potent in amalgamating the forces definitely opposed to his Excellency, it was the campaign of the hard-hitting attorney general, Gerald C. Mann, that proved the stumbling block in O'Daniel's path to glory—or perhaps it should be called the stone wall on which he got his knowledge bump. It is evident from the returns that either, without the other would have polled an additional hundred thousand votes.

All of which focuses the spot light on the democratic primaries

Bought and Paid For; But Not Delivered

According to information emanating from Washington, the new dealers under directorship of "Tommy the Cork," are understood to have shaken down about everyone in raising the war chest for the senatorial campaign in Texas.

Perhaps this explains why Congressman Lyndon Johnson did not choose to have any election contest. If the Congress or the Texas legislative committee really made an honest investigation of this election it would shove that Russian-Germany fracas right back into the classified pages.

Anyone who took the trouble to measure up the advertising lineage and radio time engaged to further the Johnson campaign would find it was considerable—and it was not paid for in hay.

But Tommy the Cork will probably be permitted to keep the inside information in the bottle. So far as the democrat party is concerned, this is no time to be airing the dirty linen.

Reports are that the new dealers are stunned at the O'Daniel victory, and someone is expected to catch the devil over it. New dealers have so long been accustomed to just marking political pork with a rubber stamp reading: "Bought and Paid For," that they overlooked the one that reads: "Not Delivered."

"My friends! What the heck do you think we have been spending all that money in Texas for—to elect a republican senator?" Could be!

Texas has a new weights and measures law the slick boys may find will throw them off their balance.

A MAN—

—Often pays the highest price for the cheapest bauble!

—Finds his greatest strength in shunning temptations!

—Never rises higher in character than his inmost thoughts!

—Must be true to his better nature if he expects to merit the trust of others!

—Is wise who learns there is no forgiveness in Nature!

—Should know he deceives only himself when he expects to secure something without paying the price!

—Is foolish to expect to find forgetfulness of his sins in repentance?

A man's folly is an expensive luxury which none can afford to indulge!

Yet the dreamer must dream his dreams, 'tis true, Ere he can know the joy of dreams come true!

of 1942, when the senatorial bout will be on the same card with the gubernatorial contest. As matters now stand, Mann can beat either Johnson or O'Daniel for the solonship if one or the other steps out of the picture and no other really strong contender shows up in the race. Likewise, O'Daniel would make it hot for the yes man of the national administration.

In the gubernatorial race Mann would probably nose out the gentleman from Kansas, but with Coke Stevenson as the third contender, there would certainly be a runoff.

If O'Daniel can reach an understanding with Mann, so that each will be playing a different circuit, both have a chance of victory. But as opponents, each stands to lose out.

If you really want to do something worth while, just deny yourself one dollar's worth of amusement in one month and donate the money to this State's United Service Organizations for the entertainment of the boys in the military establishments.

Under the bill signed by the governor, institutions of higher education in Texas will receive an increase in appropriations for the next two years of 35 percent over the previous biennium.

About all the tax payers have to thank the 47th Texas Legislature for is the privilege of paying more for state government.

Ninety days after the legislature adjourns the tin signs must come down from the beer joints in this state.

One thing certain, rural Texas is still a potent factor in affairs of this commonwealth, especially in politics.

The poor we have with us always, but we thank our stars that legislators must go home eventually.

We can now go back to speculating on how soon we will be fighting that war Mr. Roosevelt hates.

Sometimes it appears that you can buy almost anything if you have sufficient funds available.
